Payment & Transaction Policies

Document purpose

This document contains fabricated banking policies created solely for testing a policy-ingestion, chunking, embedding, vector-search, and RAG question-answering pipeline. These policies are fictional and must not be treated as real banking rules.

1. Failed Payment Retry Policy

Retry allowance: A customer may retry a failed card or UPI payment up to 4 times within a rolling 24-hour period for the same payment instrument.

Temporary restriction: After the fourth failed attempt within the rolling 24-hour period, additional payment attempts using the same instrument are blocked for 12 hours. The restriction may be removed earlier after successful identity verification.

Reset condition: The retry counter is evaluated on a rolling basis. A successful payment does not immediately erase previous failed attempts, but failures older than 24 hours are no longer included in the counter.

2. Payment Reversal Policy

If a payment is debited from the customer's account but the merchant does not receive confirmation, the transaction is classified as pending settlement. The bank may automatically reconcile the transaction within 48 hours.

If reconciliation confirms that the merchant did not receive the funds, the amount is eligible for automatic reversal. Customers should avoid repeatedly submitting the same payment while the original transaction remains pending.

3. Customer Support

For repeated payment failures, customers may contact IndiaFirst Bank support at 1800-300-4567. Support agents may request the transaction reference number, date and approximate time of the transaction, and the payment channel used.

Account & Transfer Policies

Fabricated rules for RAG testing

4. UPI Transaction Limit Policy

For standard retail accounts, the maximum cumulative UPI transfer amount permitted during a banking day is ■1,00,000. Individual transaction limits may be lower depending on the merchant category or transaction type.

A customer may perform up to 20 successful UPI transfers per calendar day. Declined or failed transactions are not counted as successful transfers for this limit.

5. Bank Transfer Cancellation Policy

A scheduled bank transfer can be cancelled until 30 minutes before its processing time. Once processing has started, cancellation is not guaranteed and the customer must contact support for assistance.

Completed transfers cannot normally be cancelled through self-service banking. A recall request may be submitted when supported by the receiving bank and applicable transaction rules.

6. Beneficiary Activation Policy

A newly added external beneficiary remains in a cooling period of 30 minutes before outbound transfers are enabled. During this period, customers may view or edit beneficiary details but cannot initiate a transfer to that beneficiary.

For security-sensitive changes, the bank may impose a longer cooling period or require additional authentication.

7. Transaction Dispute Policy

Customers should report an unauthorized electronic transaction within 7 calendar days of noticing it. The dispute should include the transaction reference, disputed amount, and preferred contact details.

A dispute acknowledgement is normally generated within 2 business days. Investigation times may vary depending on the payment network and transaction type.

Cards, Refunds & Security Policies

Fabricated rules for end-to-end retrieval testing

8. Card Payment Security Policy

After 5 consecutive incorrect card PIN attempts, the card is temporarily locked for 6 hours. Customers can restore access earlier through the bank's verified card-management flow, subject to successful authentication.

The bank will never ask customers to disclose their full card PIN, CVV, or one-time password over a phone call or support chat.

9. Merchant Refund Policy

When a merchant confirms a refund, the refund is expected to appear in the customer's account within 5 to 7 business days, depending on the payment network and merchant processing cycle.

If a confirmed refund has not appeared after 7 business days, the customer should provide the refund reference or merchant confirmation to customer support for investigation.

10. ATM Cash Withdrawal Policy

The standard daily cash-withdrawal limit for a retail debit card is ■50,000. A single ATM transaction is limited to ■20,000, subject to the ATM operator's own limits.

If an ATM transaction shows as debited but cash was not dispensed, the customer should not repeat the transaction immediately. The bank may perform an automated cash-dispense reconciliation before processing a reversal.

11. Security Escalation Policy

Transactions may be temporarily held when automated security systems detect unusual activity. A security hold does not necessarily indicate fraud. Customers may be asked to complete an additional verification step before the transaction is released.

Testing note: All names, limits, phone numbers, timelines, and rules in this document are intentionally fabricated for software testing. They are not official IndiaFirst Bank policies.
